WHEREAS, In the eyes of one child, we see reflected the dreams and hopes of all of the earth's children; and

WHEREAS, We must reaffirm our dedication to protect and nurture all of these children, both in this nation and in other parts of the world; and,

WHEREAS, Among these, there are many who are dependent upon our love and understanding, our caring and concern, that they may grow in health and happiness to enjoy a life unfettered by poverty, hunger, ignorance and injustice; and

WHEREAS, This year, 1979, is being celebrated around the world as the International Year of the Child; and

WHEREAS, The First day of May has, for centuries, been the traditional symbol of spring, the flowering of life and of hope for the future:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, WILLIAM J. JANKLOW, Governor of the State of South Dakota, do hereby proclaim May 1, 1979, to be and urge the People of our State to observe this day in such a way as to call attention to the joys, the rights, the needs of children. That in each city in South Dakota, special events be planned in which children can participate, demonstrating that they can make a valuable contribution to the community in which they live, perhaps by planting a tree, cleaning up the environment, or initiating a children's community action project. Above all, May First shall be a day we show our own children that our love for them is extended to all children on earth. I ask that this day symbolize the bond of love and concern for children which unites all people, everywhere.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the Great Seal of the State of South Dakota, in Pierre, the Capital City, this First Day of March, in the Year of Our Lord, Nineteen Hundred and Seventy-Nine
